African Border Disorders
Addressing Transnational Extremist Organizations

Edited by Olivier J. Walther, University of Florida, USA and William F.S. Miles, Northeastern University, USA

Series: Routledge Studies in African Politics and International Relations

This book explores the complex relationships that bind states, transnational rebels and extremist organizations, and borders on the African continent. Combining cutting edge network science with geographical analysis, it examines the alliances and conflicts between rebels, violent extremist organizations, the spread of Islamist violence, and how violent extremist organizations conceptualize state boundaries and territory, including the state response to the rise of transnational organizations.
